WHEELING, NOVEMBER 30, 1892.

Restricting Immigration.

There is now happily very general agreement that something should be done and done quickly to save the country from the perils of practically unrestricted immigration. Opinions differ as to what should be done. The New York World agrees that "we are receiving too many of the undesirable sort," which is true beyond controversy. The World adds:

But there is still an immigration coming to us which is altogether desirable. The European workman who has energy and thrift enough to pay his own way, and character enough to desire better conditions for himself and for his children, is a man whom we want. He is the kind of man whose coming enriches the country.

Is this true? If it be it simplifies the problem and there will be comparatively little trouble in finding a solution. If foreigners are coming in faster than work can be found for them without displacing an equal number of our own people; or if foreigners come in sufficient numbers to beat down the wages of American labor, are these newcomers men "whom we want?"

Those who will make good citizens are a great gain over those who do not, but it is fair to the wage-earners of the country to leave the way open to this killing competition with their labor? Decidedly not, and no legislation based on this principle will long be satisfactory to the country.

Chinese are "energetic and thrifty," and no American toiler can hold his own against them, for he cannot live on the compensation which enables them to lay up money. In this matter of immigration we have to consider quality, of course, but also quantity without regard to quality. It would be small satisfaction to the wage-earners of this country to know that they had been driven out of their employment by a superior class of beings created especially for the purpose.

Georgia has hanged a fifteen-year-old boy. Needless to say he was colored. Anybody of his age is too young to hang.

Mr. BLAINE is improving. It is to be hoped that he may entirely recover and be once more himself.

The Anthracite Combine.

It is surprising how little the anthracite coal men know about the coal business when the harrow of an investigating committee is being run over them. There is a well organized combination, but it does not depend on a protective tariff for its life.

There is no duty on anthracite coal. From the Democratic newspapers during the campaign you would be led to think there must be a duty of several thousand per cent on anthracite coal. This is another reminder that in the recent campaign the Democratic newspapers resorted to unfairness to a degree unusual even for them.

Wonder whether Tammany has thought of trying an electric spur on the President-elect. There is said to be much personal magnetism in that clever device.

WHEELING stores are putting on their holiday garb. Before you send your money away see whether you can't be suited at home.

Reassessment Returns.

Returns from our local reassessment are coming in. A tenant writes to the INTELLIGENCER that he has notice of an increase in his rent because taxes on the property has been doubled. The reason is good, but this does not help the tenant, whose income is not so easily increased.

It was predicted that the reassessment would not go very far before it hit tenants, but it seemed to be the Democratic idea that property owners would be glad to stand it all.

In some cases it will not be possible to put it on the tenants, and then the owners will have to content themselves with being grateful to the Democratic party for what it has done for them.

SENATOR FAULKNER thinks that Tammany Boss Crocker has lately developed a great talent for political leadership of the first rank. This may be determined better after we see whether Mr. Crocker is able to make Mr. Cleveland deliver the goods.

Mr. CLEVELAND should know better than to pull the trigger with his thumb. Great men do not handle fire arms that way.

CONGRESSMAN CAPEHART says to the New York Herald, "I am a believer in free trade." That is what the INTELLIGENCER said of Mr. Capehart during the campaign, when he was not so openly avowing his sentiments. Mr. Capehart received votes from men who do not agree with him on this important question, and they will have to grin and bear it.

The mince pie is ripe; which causes Dyspepsia to smile and say, "I'll see you later."

The President's message will be fifteen thousands words long. There is this consolation, the President will not waste any words.

Foot Ball Day Echoes.

Now that New York has had time to think it over that great city raises its voice against the aftermath of the Thanksgiving foot ball game. It is said that drunken orgies with all their boisterous and indecent concomitants are not acceptable even from collegians, and that New York has for the last time put up with that sort of thing.

It is unfortunate that an exhibition of skill, strength and courage must be topped off with a disgraceful revel, but so it is. Whoever has happened to be in New York on a recent Thanksgiving day knows that it would be difficult to exaggerate the scenes.

Youths of tender age are seen on Broadway in all stages of intoxication and doing all sorts of things for which the police would arrest anybody else. They take possession of the hotels, the theaters and about every other place which will admit them.

Experts say that a big game of foot ball can be played without all this. The fathers and mothers of the young collegians have reason to hope so.

A BERLIN gossip-monger reports the emperor as calling Bismarck an "old traitor" and an "ungrateful conspirator." The emperor has been reading the French interview which Bismarck has repudiated. It is not probable that the emperor has fallen to calling the old chancellor names.

Mr. S. G. SMITH is another Republican whose "majority was small and easily overcome by a recount." A Republican's majority must be not only stout and strong but of colossal size to withstand the shock of a Democratic recount.

Mr. WHITNEY is said to be beating the bushes in favor of our own Congressman Wilson for speaker of the next house. This would mean that Mr. Cleveland is a Wilson man. Can Mr. Cleveland name the speaker?

It is a Democratic prediction that Mr. Whitney will make twenty-five or fifty millions more by 1896 and then gracefully succeed Mr. Cleveland in the White House. Mr. Whitney's millions will be a sufficient platform.

The British newspapers are not done rejoicing over it. It strikes them as really too much pork for a shilling. Next thing we know they will be wanting to pension some of the royal family on us.

FRENCH newspapers do not think it wrong to draw on fancy when they wish to say something about Germany. Hence the bogus Bismarck interview put out in Paris.

Some Democratic newspapers are in an italic frenzy lest their party entertain the country with an extra session. How odd, to stand so in dread of your own family.

The south wants an extra session of congress and the prompt repeal of the McKinley act. If this is what the south wants, shall the Democratic party say it nay?

A HOMESTEAD dispatch says that reports of destitution in that place are much exaggerated. It is gratifying to have this assurance from headquarters.

About 10,000 bar rooms do what they can to assuage the metropolitan thirst of New York. And still there are Gothamites who are forever dry.

For a street car service that will serve the public convenience Wheeling can well afford to put up with even more temporary inconvenience.

It is to be hoped that the comet has not run away with the sun, which seems to be lost, strayed or stolen for lo, these several days.

DEMOCRATIC eyes are already fastened on Senator Kenna's seat. What a role this is.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

An uncommonly striking ornament now on exhibition in the window of a famous New York jeweler is the tusk of a sacred elephant from the east. The tusk, six feet long, is one of the finest and straightest ever brought to this country, and it was valued, before mounting, at $750. A deal of time and expense have been placed upon the metal work of the mounting, and the whole design is thoroughly East Indian.

The oldest East Indian manuscript in the world, and one of the oldest existing manuscripts of any kind, has recently been dug up just outside of a subterranean city near Kuchiar. It is written on birch bark, and contains two medical sections, two collections of proverbial sayings and one invaluable charm against snake bites given by the Lord Buddha himself to Ananda.

In making railroad tunnels, cuts, etc., and in sinking wells and pits in Nevada, Utah and Arizona, salt strata are often struck at various depths, sometimes as much as a hundred yards beneath the surface. Hundreds of fish perfectly preserved, are found in blocks of this pure rock salt.

One day last week there arrived at Muskegon, Michigan, a man and wife who had driven in their own conveyance all the way from Lincoln, Nebraska, something more than a thousand miles. They have gone to Manitowish, their former home, having been unsuccessful in Nebraska.

A new drink is celery coffee. It is supposed to give renewed strength to the brain and nerve. It is very nice to the palate and improves the general health of those who take it regularly.

J. Henry Stickney writes in a letter to Secretary L. P. Hubbard of the New England society: "During the last summer we have done a good deal in the way of wharfing and removing old buildings, to improve the surroundings of the rock at Plymouth.

The salvation army's success in Boston last year amounted to sixteen converts, as against 32,433 in the whole country. The Boston Herald seems to think that the army found sinners very scarce at the Hub. More likely they are extra hard.

The Youth's Companion, which claims the phenomenal circulation of 550,000 copies per week, has lately moved into its palatial new building at the corner of Columbus avenue and Berkeley street, in the newer quarter of Boston.

An Elmira woman has beaten a New York city player in a "long endurance" contest, in which the $200 stakes went to the performer that kept both hands employed longest on the key board.

Monaco, with its territory of eight square miles and its standing army of 128 men, proposes to have a universal exposition next year.

All twisted boring tools are said to be of American invention.

SEVERAL NEW NOVELTIES.

A perpetual train time table, about the size and shape of the popular dime savings bank, movable sleeves carrying figures that are regulatable to suit the various train hours.

A fastener for neck scarfs which does away with that barbarous stick pin at the back and substitutes a rectangular channel and an automatic holder.

A new running gear for wagons, in which diagonally disposed springs cross each other and are held in place by means of a flexible connection.

A safety device for window cleaners, consisting of a strap fastened to each side of the window frame and also to a hook in the belt of the cleaner.

A signal telegraph, consisting of electric lights for the signals, and a key-board that works the lights according to the Morse system.

A tip for crutches or canes, which can be regulated so as to be extended from the end of the cane or crutch when desired.

A horse's nose bag, in which a rubber diaphragm tightly fitting about the animal's head prevents the waste of oats.

A dinner bucket in which the central channel, with an alcoholic lamp, heats the surrounding compartments.

A combined lead pencil and mullage-holder, the mullage being in one end and the lead in the other.

A bung like a truncated cone that is adapted to screw into a bung hole that is made tapering.

A spatula composed of a blade of rubber, having a broad tin steel core and handle.

A machine that points meat skewers as fast as you can feed the wood to it.

A machine that sticks stamps with a deftness that is extraordinary.

A folding baby carriage that can be folded up to go in a trunk.

A machine for grooving horseshoes.

A door-closer operated by gravity.

Forty-Six Anarchists on Trial.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—The Standard's Madrid correspondent says: "The trial has opened at Jerez (or Xeres) of forty-six men charged with complicity in the night attack on the prison of Jerez in January, 1891. The court house, and the roads leading to the environs are guarded by police and troops. The prisoners appear in court manacled and guarded by an armed escort with threatening bayonets.

Protection.

It is most natural for us all to protect ourselves against all evils. Drinking to excess is one of them. Drinking bad whisky is another. You can, if you will, easily protect yourself against either. Pure, unadulterated whisky, containing no fusel oil or other impure substances, will absolutely protect you. It will create no morbid appetite or fire your blood, leaving you in a condition that requires continual draughts to bring about a natural feeling again. Max Klein's Liquors are strictly pure. Doctors of known reputation recommend them. His "Silver Age" at $1 50, and "Duquesne" at $1 25 per full quart, are really the finest whiskies in the world. All Penna. Ryes six years old at $1 00 each, or six quarts for $5 00. Wines from 50c upward. (Send for catalogue and price list to Max Klein, 82 Federal street, Allegheny, Pa.)

American Cholera.

From the Daily Reville, Watson, Wash.

"T. C. Burnett, the Democratic candidate for sheriff, was taken violently ill at Clearbrook. He had all the symptoms of Asiatic cholera, and for an hour or two it was feared he would die. They finally gave him a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which revived him until a physician arrived." This is precisely what the manufacturers of that medicine recommend for cholera. Send for a physician, but give your medicine until the physician arrives. If cholera becomes prevalent in this country next summer this preparation will be in great demand because it can always be depended upon.

On Election Day the Comet Had a Green Band About It and an Embryo Tail.

LICK OBSERVATORY, CALA., Nov. 29.—

The Holmes comet has been systematically observed here since November 8, but the stormy weather prevented observations every night of the past week except one. Its position in the sky has been accurately measured by Prof. Senberle with a meridian circle and by Prof. Barnard with a 12 inch telescope. The latter has also secured a good photograph of the comet. Mr. Campbell has observed its spectrum visually and photographically with the great equatorial. The observations show that in many respects it is the most remarkable comet of recent years. On November 8 its diameter was one sixteenth of the moon's diameter. It was so sharply defined rounded and dense that it resembled a planetary nebula. Near the center of the ball called the comet was an unusual nucleus, slightly elongated. Diverging from this nucleus, in the direction opposite the sun, was a dense fan like structure, which could be traced up to the edge of the comet; and it was visible even beyond the edge when the bright comet was just outside the telescope. This structure was the tail of the comet in embryo, which has since increased considerably in length.

The spectrum of the comet is unique. All parts of it give a continuous spectrum, but underlying this there is certainly a trace of a green band, in which respect observations here differ from those reported from other observatories. The apparent size of the comet has continually increased until now it is about two-thirds the diameter of the moon. It is quite diffused and elongated, and has the appearance of an ordinary comet. Though it has grown larger, it has also grown fainter and is barely visible to the unaided eye. Computers agree that it is not Biela's comet, and that it is neither close nor approaching the earth. In fact, though it is moving in an ellipse around the sun, its orbit seems to lie entirely outside the orbit of Mars, and it can therefore never approach us even as closely as Mars does. The meteor shower of November 23 could not be seen here on account of the clouds.

Blaine Still Improves.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29.—According to information obtained at Mr. Blaine's residence, the distinguished invalid continues to improve. So far there has been no set back since the case took its first favorable turn, and unless some unforeseen complication shall arise it is probable he will be able to leave the house for a drive as soon as the weather becomes fair.

Cleveland Kept In Doors.

EXMORE, VA., Nov. 29.—A storm of unusual violence exists here to-day. All the plans made for gunning by Mr. Cleveland and party were abandoned, the weather keeping the President-elect inside of Mr. Ferrell's cottage, and even preventing him from his regular constitutional walk. It is probable that duck shooting will be interfered with for at least a couple of days.

Rev. Sylvanus Lane

Of the Cincinnati M. E. Conference, makes a good point when he says: "We have for years used Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family of five, and find it fully equal to all that is claimed for it. Some people are greatly prejudiced against patent medicines, but how the patent can hurt a medicine and not a machine is a mystery of mysteries to me."

SAVED MY LIFE

Would Have Scratched Myself to Death but for Cuticura. Best Doctors Two Years. Bills $125.

Expended $2.50 for Cuticura Remedies. I am To-Day a Well Man, With a Smooth Skin.

I was afflicted two years with a disease the doctors called ring worm, herpes, or salt rheum. I was treated by three different doctors, the best I could find, but they did me no good. My doctor's bills were $125. One told me I would have to go to some healing springs to get well. I saw your advertisement, and wrote to you over a year ago. A young friend of mine was going to New Orleans, La., at the time, and I sent by him to bring me back some of the CUTICURA REMEDIES. He brought two boxes CUTICURA, two cakes CUTICURA SOAP, and one bottle CUTICURA RESOLVENT. I must thank God for your CUTICURA REMEDIES coming to my relief. I am now to-day a well man; my neck, shoulders, and arms are as smooth as they ever were. I have had good health ever since I commenced to use the CUTICURA REMEDIES. I am spreading the fame of it everywhere I go, for it is a God-send to suffering humanity. It was the CUTICURA REMEDIES which saved my life. I would have scratched myself to death. I have quit using the medicine now for nine months, and no trace of the disease has shown up since.

A. H. MARRY, Sheppardstown, Miss.
